

Offsetcheck

Keeping the bankers honest.

Brand Style Guide

Logo, colour, typography, UI style and tone of voice

The Brand

Offsetcheck independently verifies the numbers your bank gives you — re-calculating the interest charged on your home loan and the benefit credited by your offset account, line by line, to the cent.

Positioning

Banks calculate offset benefits and loan interest inside systems customers cannot see. Errors are rare, small, and almost always in the bank's favour — and almost never checked. Offsetcheck is the independent check: a precise, impartial auditor on the customer's side of the table. The brand must feel like what it is — a measuring instrument, not a protest movement.

Name

Always write the name Offsetcheck — one word, capital O, everything else lowercase.

Correct	Never
Offsetcheck	Offset Check, Offset-Check
offsetcheck.com (domain and handles only)	OffsetCheck, offsetCheck
Offsetcheck (start of sentence is still one capital)	OFFSETCHECK

Tagline

The tagline is “Keeping the bankers honest.” It states the mission in the customer's language: the banks do the calculating, we do the checking.

- Sentence case, exactly as written, with the trailing full stop in print and lockups.
- Never reword, translate, abbreviate, or use it as a headline about a specific bank or finding.
- In the tagline lockup it is set in JetBrains Mono — the voice of the ledger. Omit the tagline below 160 px lockup width; never squeeze it to fit.
- The tagline is cheeky but the product is sober: marketing may lean on it, in-product and findings copy must not editorialize.

Brand attributes

Attribute	What it means in practice
Precise	Every claim carries a number and its working — “$412.07 over 14 months”, never “a lot”.
Independent	No bank partnerships or commissions. The answer is the same whoever asks.
Plain-spoken	Compound interest explained like a mate would; jargon always defined.
Calm	Findings stated, not dramatised. The mathematics is the headline.

Logo

The mark is the offset check: a bold verification tick accompanied by its offset twin — the same shape, shifted up and to the left by a fixed amount. That is exactly what the product does: it takes the bank's figure and lays our independently calculated figure alongside it, and the match (or mismatch) is the answer.

Construction and clear space

The tile is a 96-unit square with a 22-unit corner radius. Clear space on all sides equals $x = 24$ units (one quarter of the tile). Nothing enters the clear space — no text, rules, imagery, or page edges.

offset: 9u
stroke: 11u / 5.5u
tile radius: 22u
grid: 96u sq

Misuse

Offsetcheck

Never stretch or condense

Offsetcheck

Never recolour the gradient or wordmark

Offsetcheck

No drop shadows or effects

OFFSET CHECK

Never re-typeset the wordmark

Offsetcheck

Never place on busy or low-contrast backgrounds

Never reduce opacity or use as a faint watermark at low contrast

Colour

The palette pairs the warmth of surveyor's amber and safety orange — the colours of measurement, tape and hi-vis — with a sober ink-and-grey ledger. Warm colour means attention; the neutrals carry the reading.

Brand colours

Brand gradient

135° #FBBF24 → #F97316

Surveyor Amber

#FBBF24 · RGB 251 191 36

Signal Orange

#F97316 · RGB 249 115 22

The gradient is reserved for key moments: the logo tile, the primary call to action, and the headline figure in a findings summary. Everywhere else, use solid amber or orange sparingly as accents.

Neutrals

Ink

#101828 · headings, dark surfaces

Ledger Grey

#344054 · body text

Muted

#667085 · captions, metadata

Rule

#E4E7EC · borders, dividers

Canvas

#F9FAFB · page background

Surface

#FFFFFF · cards, sheets

Findings colours

Findings colours communicate the result of a check. They are semantic — never decorative.

Verified

#12B76A · check passed, figures match

Review

#F79009 · discrepancy within tolerance, needs eyes

Overcharge

#F04438 · confirmed discrepancy in bank's favour

Usage rules

- Proportion: roughly 70% neutrals (canvas, surface, ink), 25% grey text and rules, 5% amber/orange. The gradient stays special by staying rare.
- Signal Orange on white fails AA for body text — use it for text only at 18 pt bold or larger, or on Ink backgrounds. Body links and small accents on white use #C2410C (orange 700).
- Findings colours never appear outside findings contexts — a green badge always means verified.
- Dark mode: Ink #101828 surfaces become #0C111D; body text becomes #E4E7EC; gradient unchanged.

Typography

Two typefaces, two jobs. Inter speaks to the customer. JetBrains Mono speaks for the ledger — every number that matters is set in mono.

Inter — interface and editorial

Style	Spec	Use
Display	700 · 40/48 · -2%	Campaign headlines, hero pages
Heading 1	700 · 30/38 · -2%	Page titles
Heading 2	600 · 24/32 · -1%	Section titles
Heading 3	600 · 18/28	Card and panel titles
Body	400 · 16/26	Paragraphs, explanations
Caption	400 · 12/16	Metadata, timestamps, footnotes

JetBrains Mono — the ledger voice

Mono is mandatory for: dollar amounts, interest rates, dates inside ledgers and findings, account references, and technical annotation. It signals “this is a verifiable figure”.

In product — numbers in tables are always mono, always right-aligned, always to two decimals:

Offset benefit claimed $4,212.00

Offset benefit verified $3,799.93

Discrepancy $412.07

Rules

- Sentence case for all headings — no title case, no all-caps except mono micro-labels (e.g. VERIFIED).
- Never set body copy in mono, and never set amounts in a proportional face.
- Web/app: load Inter (400–700) and JetBrains Mono (500, 700). Print: the same. No substitutes.

UI & Layout Style

The product feels like a well-kept ledger with a surveyor's confidence: calm neutrals, generous whitespace, crisp rules — and a warm flash of colour exactly where a number matters.

Shape and depth

Element	Spec
Cards, panels	radius 12px · 1px #E4E7EC border · shadow 0 1px 3px rgba(16,24,40,.08)
Inputs, tables	radius 8px · 1px #E4E7EC border
Status chips, findings badges	pill (999px) · mono uppercase 11px · tinted background at 10% of the findings colour
Buttons	radius 10px · height 44px minimum

Buttons

- Primary — brand gradient background, Ink #101828 label, semibold. One primary per view. Label is a verb: “Check my offset”, “Upload statement”.
- Secondary — Surface white, 1 px Rule border, Ledger Grey label.
- Destructive — Overcharge #F04438, used only for irreversible actions.

Icons and illustration

- Lucide icons, 1.5 px stroke, Muted by default. No filled or 3D icon sets.
- Illustration is diagrammatic: thin rules, dimension lines, ledger rows, mono annotations. No stock photography of smiling families or piggy banks.
- Charts use Ink for axes, Signal Orange for the bank's figure, Verified green for ours. The visual argument is always “two lines, laid side by side”.

Findings presentation

The findings card is the heart of the product. Structure, in order: verdict chip (Verified / Review / Overcharge) → headline figure in mono → the two compared amounts → the working, expandable. The headline figure is the only place outside the logo where the gradient may colour text.

Voice & Tone

Offsetcheck writes like a forensic accountant who is on your side: precise, plain, unimpressed by authority — and never hysterical.

Principles

Principle	Means
Show the working	Every claim is followed by the figures that prove it. If we can't show it, we don't say it.
The customer's side	“Your bank”, “your money”, “you're owed”. We are never neutral about whose interest we serve — only about the math.
Plain English	“Interest you shouldn't have paid”, not “erroneous debit interest accruals”. Define any term a first-home buyer wouldn't know.
Calm, not alarmist	State the discrepancy and the dollar figure. Let the number carry the weight. No exclamation marks in findings.
Fair to facts	We accuse systems of errors, never people of crimes. Words like fraud , scam , rip-off , lying are banned in product copy.

Say / don't say

Say	Don't say
Your bank short-changed your offset benefit by $412.07 over 14 months.	Your bank is ripping you off!
We found a discrepancy. Here is the calculation, line by line.	Banks can't be trusted.
Check my offset	Submit
This figure is verified to the cent.	Trust us — it adds up.
Worth a look: $83.20 difference, inside tolerance.	ALERT: Problem detected!!

Vocabulary

Use: verified, discrepancy, to the cent, the working, independent, tolerance, ledger. Avoid: fraud, scam, criminal, shocking, outrage, guaranteed refund.

Compliance checklist — every deliverable must pass

- Name written Offsetcheck; tagline, if present, exactly “Keeping the bankers honest.”
- Logo used from kit files only — never re-typeset, recoloured, stretched, or rebuilt.
- Colours only from this palette; gradient reserved for logo, primary CTA, and headline figures.
- Type only Inter and JetBrains Mono; all amounts, rates and ledger dates in mono.
- Findings colours used semantically only.
- Voice: precise, plain, calm; no banned vocabulary.
